DYNAMITERS' CONSPIRACY OPEN DEFENSE

Denies Allegations Made By District Attorney Miller.

OUTLINES CASE OF HIS CLIENTS

He Asks In Behalf of the Iron Workers For Suspension of Judgment. Challenges Charge That Union Had Appropriated Money to Be Used in Dynamiting — Miller Makes More Allegations in Concluding Recital.

Indianapolis, Oct. 9. — William N. Harding, attorney for the defendants in the dynamite cases, outlined the defense when District Attorney Miller had concluded his recital. He said at the outset it would be shown that the executive board of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers never appropriated a dollar to be used for dynamiting. He asked the jury to suspend judgment until after the witnesses had testified. If anyone connected with the union diverted the funds for any illegal purpose, the guilty persons, he said it would be shown, were not among the present defendants.

Referring to letters written by Frank M. Ryan, president of the iron workers' union, to various business agents, which the government quoted as showing that jobs was the term used to designate explosions against employers of nonunion labor, Harding said it would be shown that jobs meant only new work which offered opportunity for union men to get employment.

Once Harding became so vehement in answering District Attorney C. W. Miller that Judge A. B. Anderson interposed, "the court will make allowances for your enthusiasm for the defendants, but it is not necessary for you to split the hairs of the jurors in an opening statement."

"Jobs" in New England. Taking up the New England campaign of Ortle McManigal, Mr. Miller charged in the dynamite conspiracy case that Frank J. Higgins and Michael Young, the Boston defendants, went with McManigal to Springfield, Mass., where on April 15, 1911, the new municipal tower was dynamited. Higgins, he said, boasted that the explosion cost the Boston local $300. Young and Higgins, Miller said, then went to Hartford, Conn., and from there wrote to John J. McNamara that they had been there for a week, thus laying the foundation for an alibi.

Eleven dynamitings of nonunion jobs occurred in Cleveland between 1906 and 1911. The earlier offenses were not mentioned in the indictments, but government agent who made investigations are satisfied that they were all inspired from the same source.

More than 50 hotel clerks and attaches are here to testify in the dynamite trial. They are expected to be the first witnesses called after the opening statements are concluded, and their evidence is expected to corroborate the confession of Ortle E. McManigal insofar as to verify the cities and dates mentioned in Attorney Miller's recital.

One Man Killed and Companion Fatally Wounded.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 9.—Joseph Klatil was shot and killed and his companion, Michael Glowski, was shot through the head on the outskirts of the city by three men who entered the boarding car in which the two were living and, with leveled revolvers, demanded their money. Klatil started to push the robbers, whereupon he was shot. Then Glowski was shot and beaten over the head. The robbers escaped.

TAFT'S MANAGER BEFORE PROBERS FOR EXAMINATION

Testifies President's Family Put $150,000 Into Campaign.

KEPT ACCOUNTS IN HIS POCKET

Chairman Declares the Campaign For Renomination Cost Five Times More Than He Had Anticipated. Questioned Regarding the Distribution of $250,000 Spent in the Fight. Ormsby McHarg Before Committee.

Washington, Oct. 9. — The sum of $265,000 collected and spent in the campaign for President Taft's renomination through his Washington headquarters was partially accounted for by Representative William B. McKinley of Illinois, the president's campaign manager, in testimony before the senate investigating committee.

McKinley said the Taft family, comprising Charles P. Taft, Henry W. Taft and Horace Taft, brothers of the president, gave $150,000. The campaign, he declared, had cost five times what was expected.

The other chief contributors to the Taft fund, with the respective amounts, as given by McKinley, were: John H. Hammond, $25,000; Andrew Carnegie, $25,000; E. T. Stotesbury, Philadelphia, $25,000; "Mr. Kelsey" and "Mr. Patton" of New York, described as "friends of the president," $12,000; Richard Kerens, St. Louis, ambassador to Austria-Hungary, $5,000; Senator W. Murray Crane, $5,000; Secretary Knox, $2,500; Attorney General Wickersham, $1,000; Former Senator Nathan B. Scott, $1,000; A. C. James, $1,000.

McKinley's records were read from small pencilled memorandums which he dug out of a trousers' pocket. He told the committee they were all he had to show for the handling of the big fund, except books kept in the headquarters that covered $134,000 spent directly for ordinary campaign purposes. Mr. McKinley declared his memory was not good enough to recall all the purposes for which money went out.

The contributions to state campaigns by the Taft national headquarters were given as follows: West Virginia, $6,000; Maryland, $10,000 to $12,000; Ohio, $20,000; Illinois, $15,000; Maine, $3,000; Texas, $5,000; Indiana, $10,000; Iowa, $5,000; Kansas, $5,000; Kentucky, $2,000.

Roosevelt's manager, Ormsby McHarg, accounted for the expenditure of $25,000 or $30,000 by the Roosevelt committee in the southern states where contests were brought. He denied that any money had been spent to influence delegates. McHarg told the committee that he had had nothing to do with politics since the June convention.

Lake Charles, La., Oct. 9.—Industrial Workers of the World plan a strike of 50,000 men as a protest against the treatment accorded 52 members of the timber men's union by the authorities here. The 52 are on trial for the murder of one guard and three of their comrades in a riot at Gabow July 7. The I. W. W. claim the authorities are acting under the influence of the Louisiana lumber trust, which is waging a war against the union.

KEEPING up his reputation strenuously, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt completed a 10,000 swing around the country during September, making his appeal for Progressive support in twenty-seven states. He spoke to thousands of persons at scheduled meetings and to thousands more from the rear of his special train. "How do you feel?" he was asked when it was over. "As fresh as a daisy!" was his characteristic exclamation. During October he speaks in the middle west, including Illinois, Michigan, Indiana and Ohio, with a dash into Pennsylvania and New England. The last five days of his campaign will be in New York. While the head of the Progressive ticket has been battling for votes with his customary vigor, his side partner, Governor Hiram W. Johnson of California, has been running him a close second in activity. The executive of the Golden State has toured the middle west and the east in true Rooseveltian style. The Progressives see in the governor a first rate vote getter, and that's what counts. The views in our photographs show the two bull moosers in action.

Record-Breaking Speed in Selecting Jurors in the Becker Trial.

New York, Oct. 9.—The main characteristic at the trial of Lieutenant Becker was the record-breaking speed in selecting jurors. Justice Goff had determined that time should not be frittered away by argument or unnecessary repetition of questions. He was inflexible in holding counsel to definite and pertinent matters in the examination of witnesses. Appeals and protests did not move him in the slightest. Eleven jurors are now in the box.

Conflagration In Balkans Bursts Forth War Is On

Montenegro's War Declaration Only the Beginning.

Paris, Oct. 9.—A general conflagration in the Balkans is expected by officials here within 48 hours.

Montenegro's declaration of war against Turkey is regarded more as the beginning. It is believed that the units in the Balkan coalition will follow suit as soon as the mobilization of their armies is complete. There is only a faint hope now that the representations of the powers will avert general hostilities.

There was fighting along the border between Turkey and Montenegro. Montenegro's move is considered in Paris to be a part of a pre-arranged plan. She had a long-standing quarrel with Turkey over the boundary question, and Turkey's refusal to grant satisfaction was seized upon as justification for Montenegro's resort to arms.

According to dispatches from Cetinje, the capital of Montenegro, as soon as King Nicholas had given the Turkish envoy his passports, he himself left the capital with his son, Prince Mirko, for the headquarters of the army at Podgoritz. The departure of the king and the prince was accompanied by the salutes of cannon and much ringing of church bells.

In the failure of intervention every fiber of energy will be exerted by the great powers to prevent the war flame from engulfing Europe.

Climax Came in the Ninth Inning When Joe Fanned Two, Leaving Two New York Runners Stranded on the Bases—Tesserau Also Pitches Swell Ball—Other Features of the Opening Game of World's Series.

New York, Oct. 9.—A baseball game which was splendidly fought ushered in the world's series on the Polo grounds amphitheater Tuesday afternoon. By a score of 4 to 3, the figures speaking eloquently and truly of the contest's closeness, the Red Sox of Boston came and conquered the Giants of New York, and to the Hub goes the first victory of the series.

As the opening engagement of the premier teams of the American and National leagues unfolded it didn't bring baseball that was the very best in mechanical execution. One bold, concentrated foray with their truncheons and the Bostons had won. One clustering of hits and it was practically all the batting they did, and the game was theirs to have and to hold.

A grim, game rally by the Giants in the ninth inning had the multitude a-tingle with excitement, and among the Giant rooters hope.

Climax in the Ninth.

There was both alarm, menace and glory for Joseph Wood, a pitching paragon in his own set, and the red hope of Boston in this ninth-inning rally. First gouging him for three hits and putting one run over, two Giants then were hovering on the bases with one out. Another hit or the slightest break in the Boston defense and one and perhaps two men would have dashed for the plate. The dash, tho', never came. Summoning all the speed he had, and with a final twist of his supple wrist, Wood's smoke-ball came through with such quirk and quivers that two Giants struck out and left two comrades fettered to the bags. This, the game's most dramatic moment, came as a climax.

New York's hitting, while numerically better than Boston did, was less effective because more scattered. The great strength, the telling factor in Wood's pitching was not in keeping the Giants from hitting safely fairly often, but at certain times in keeping them from hitting at all. Striking out men was how he scored heavily. He took 11 men into camp by striking them out.

GREAT SHOWING.

The statistics contained in the report of the registrar of the State Automobile department, recently completed show the existence of a remarkable condition.

Most every one knows that the use of automobiles has become much more general in the last few years and that the number of machines in use has increased very rapidly. Few people, however, realized that the number had increased as rapidly as it has and few indeed believed that one person in every seventy-seven in the state of Ohio owned an automobile.

Yet that is just what the statistics show.

Doesn't seem possible?

No, but it is a hard cold fact disclosed by the figures of the department and the announcement is not subject to dispute. Figures do not lie and the department is very careful in compiling the statistics.

It should be borne in mind too that this not one family in seventy-seven but one person in seventy-seven and includes men, women and children.

Adopting the old rule of five to a family and we have one family in every sixteen owning an automobile.

Few indeed, are the people who believed such a showing by the figures possible.

Take the total number of automobiles in Ohio at a valuation of $1000 each and we find that the people of the state have invested in automobiles, exclusive of manufacturing plants, garages and supply houses, the staggering sum of nearly seventy millions of dollars.

That showing in itself tells an irrefutable story of prosperity unrivaled in the history of any people. Either that or it tells a story of profligacy which is an unfailing prophecy of disaster.

Taken in connection with the bumper crop records, the splendid showing of the banks, the ability of the people, it would seem from surface indications at least, to get about whatever they want when they want it, the conclusion seems irresistible that the enormous investment in automobiles is an evidence of an abundant prosperity rather than an evidence of reckless extravagance.

The showing of the statistics is a wonderful one.

Since the report has become public there is no longer room to doubt the fact that the use of automobiles has carried into the expense account of the American people an item which is rapidly growing beyond its near neighbors on the same side of the ledger.

Too Many Inefficient Physicians Graduate From American Hospitals

By Dr. HEINRICH NEUMANN, Austrian Physician

TAKE the largest city hospitals in the United States and you find there are too many heads to every department. There is no regular system of postmortems.

One case may be handled by three, four or more physicians, and young physicians come and go without regard to the length of time spent in study and practice. Many are STRIVING ONLY TO MAKE MONEY IN PRIVATE PRACTICE without considering whether or not they have fitted themselves honestly to practice as specialists.

The hospitals I have examined are beautiful and perfectly equipped, but they cannot advance the science of medicine until they adopt the postmortem system. The Austrian law helps the medical profession there by providing that every one who receives treatment, RICH OR POOR, IN A GENERAL HOSPITAL MUST AGREE TO A CLINICAL POSTMORTEM.

It would be necessary for students and medical men to go to Europe for special study if the proper methods were adopted in America. You have men of as high intelligence and skill as are to be found anywhere, and you have the means to meet all requirements, but under conditions which prevail in general hospital practice here hundreds of Americans are forced to seek special knowledge in foreign countries.

Poetry For Today

EASY.

There are numerous ways to be happy.
There are numerous ways to be gay;
But the generous feller,
Big hearted and meller,
He has doped out the easiest way.
A feller can be quite contented
By makin' his brother men glad,
Because it's reflected
Right back unexpected,
The best joy a man ever had.

A feller don't have to be wealthy
To play a philanthropist's part;
He must just be cheerful
To always be cheerful
And keep the sunshine in his heart.

I'd rather shake hands with a feller
Who's got a glad smile on his face
Than one with a million;
Or even a billion,
Who's lacking in that savin' grace.

It costs not a cent to be cheerful
Or to give a warm clasp of the hand;
Sometimes it is bunk
And the feller's a hunk,
But it don't hurt you none, understand.

We all love the things that are pleasant,
A feller that spreads lots of salve
May come just to flatter
But that doesn't matter;
He's a purty durned good friend to have.

HAVE COLOR IN YOUR CHEEKS—BE BETTER LOOKING—TRY OLIVE TABLETS.

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study with his patients.

These Olive Tablets oil the bowels—yet have no oily taste. They are a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil.

If you want a clear pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get at the cause. Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects. They start the bile and overcome constipation. That's why millions of boxes are sold annually at 10c and 25c per box.

"Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own." Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results.

ON SUFFERING.

Elbert Hubbard, editor of the Philistine, says: "Most of the suffering in this life comes from too much work, or too little." He could have left that off "too little," and he would have left it off had he referred to wash-day suffering. There has been too much work on wash day for the women, but now we have Easy Task soap that does the work easily, quickly, cleanly and surely—and does half the work all by itself. It is the cleanest, purest, white laundry soap made and sold at five cents a cake.

Life's Healings.

Of all the amazing forces of nature—her thunder and cataracts, oceans in wild storm and volcanoes in floods of molten rock, and those hidden monster-powers of electricity, gravitation and chemic affinities—the most wonderful of all is her healing power, her ability to get over anything, her infinite resources of recovery.

Haven't you often wondered why the whole world did not die of the cholera? And those other plagues no one seems able to stay, the typho, the smallpox, the bubonic plague, besides the awful pests of history, the red death and the black death; why have any of them ceased at all?

One reason of this is that the four huge rooms in nature's house are full of health supply. These rooms are sunshine, water, air and earth.

For Nature's other name is The Healer. She is the original and only cure-all.

And all this is quite as true in the realm of mind and soul as it is in the realm of body.—Woman's World

GREAT SHOWING.

The statistics contained in the report of the registrar of the State Automobile department, recently completed show the existence of a remarkable condition.

Most every one knows that the use of automobiles has become much more general in the last few years and that the number of machines in use has increased very rapidly. Few people, however, realized that the number had increased as rapidly as it has and few indeed believed that one person in every seventy-seven in the state of Ohio owned an automobile.

Yet that is just what the statistics show.

Doesn't seem possible?

No, but it is a hard cold fact disclosed by the figures of the department and the announcement is not subject to dispute. Figures do not lie and the department is very careful in compiling the statistics.

It should be borne in mind too that this not one family in seventy-seven but one person in seventy-seven and includes men, women and children.

Adopting the old rule of five to a family and we have one family in every sixteen owning an automobile.

Few indeed, are the people who believed such a showing by the figures possible.

Take the total number of automobiles in Ohio at a valuation of $1000 each and we find that the people of the state have invested in automobiles, exclusive of manufacturing plants, garages and supply houses, the staggering sum of nearly seventy millions of dollars.

That showing in itself tells an irrefutable story of prosperity unrivaled in the history of any people. Either that or it tells a story of profligacy which is an unfailing prophecy of disaster.

Taken in connection with the bumper crop records, the splendid showing of the banks, the ability of the people, it would seem from surface indications at least, to get about whatever they want when they want it, the conclusion seems irresistible that the enormous investment in automobiles is an evidence of an abundant prosperity rather than an evidence of reckless extravagance.

The showing of the statistics is a wonderful one.

Since the report has become public there is no longer room to doubt the fact that the use of automobiles has carried into the expense account of the American people an item which is rapidly growing beyond its near neighbors on the same side of the ledger.

Too Many Inefficient Physicians Graduate From American Hospitals

By Dr. HEINRICH NEUMANN, Austrian Physician

TAKE the largest city hospitals in the United States and you find there are too many heads to every department. There is no regular system of postmortems.

One case may be handled by three, four or more physicians, and young physicians come and go without regard to the length of time spent in study and practice. Many are STRIVING ONLY TO MAKE MONEY IN PRIVATE PRACTICE without considering whether or not they have fitted themselves honestly to practice as specialists.

The hospitals I have examined are beautiful and perfectly equipped, but they cannot advance the science of medicine until they adopt the postmortem system. The Austrian law helps the medical profession there by providing that every one who receives treatment, RICH OR POOR, IN A GENERAL HOSPITAL MUST AGREE TO A CLINICAL POSTMORTEM.

It would be necessary for students and medical men to go to Europe for special study if the proper methods were adopted in America. You have men of as high intelligence and skill as are to be found anywhere, and you have the means to meet all requirements, but under conditions which prevail in general hospital practice here hundreds of Americans are forced to seek special knowledge in foreign countries.

Poetry For Today

EASY.

There are numerous ways to be happy.
There are numerous ways to be gay;
But the generous feller,
Big hearted and meller,
He has doped out the easiest way.

A feller can be quite contented
By makin' his brother men glad,
Because it's reflected
Right back unexpected,
The best joy a man ever had.

A feller don't have to be wealthy
To play a philanthropist's part;
He must just be cheerful
To always be cheerful
And keep the sunshine in his heart.

I'd rather shake hands with a feller
Who's got a glad smile on his face
Than one with a million;
Or even a billion,
Who's lacking in that savin' grace.

It costs not a cent to be cheerful
Or to give a warm clasp of the hand;
Sometimes it is bunk
And the feller's a hunk,
But it don't hurt you none, understand.

We all love the things that are pleasant.

A feller that spreads lots of salve
May come just to flatter
But that doesn't matter;

He's a putty durned good friend
To have,

HAVE COLOR IN YOUR CHEEKS—BE BETTER LOOKING—TRY OLIVE TABLETS.

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study with his patients.

These Olive Tablets oil the bowels—yet have no oily taste. They are a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil.

If you want a clear pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get at the cause. Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects. They start the bile and overcome constipation. That's why millions of boxes are sold annually at 10c and 25c per box.

"Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own." Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results.

Wood Fanned Eleven Of 'Em

In his league experience, pitched a game which is to his credit, even if he did lose. He allowed only five hits. Wood, however, was his superior; there is no doubt of that. In no other position were the Red Sox one whit superior unless at short. Most of the outfield play was easy. There were two outfield mistakes. In the sixth inning Snodgrass, through an excess of zeal, ran across Devore's path and made the latter drop a liner from Speaker, which was good for three bases and, subsequently, a run. But if this were a break of fortune in Boston's favor, there was one in New York's. In the background the sun made Lewis lose track of a short high fly from Doyle's bat in the third inning, and the sequel of that slip was two runs for the Giants.

How Runs Were Made.

New York—Third inning: Tesreau fanned, and Devore was passed. Doyle dropped a Texas leaguer in short left, Devore taking third and Doyle drawing up at second. Snodgrass struck out. Murray, who failed to get a hit in the last world's series, singled over second, scoring Devore and Doyle, but was out at second in attempting to stretch his hit into a double. Two runs, two hits, no errors.

Ninth inning: Murray flied to Hooper. Merkle, Herzog and Meyers singled in succession, Merkle scoring. Wood then put on steam and struck out Fletcher and Crandall. One run, three hits, no error.

Boston—Sixth inning: With one out Speaker hit for three bases, Boston's first hit of the game. Speaker scored on Lewis' out. One run, one hit, no errors.

Seventh inning: Stahl out, Doyle to Merkle. Wagner and Cady singled to center. Wood forced Cady, Doyle to Fletcher. Hooper doubled to right, scoring Wagner and sending Wood to third. Yerkes sent a double to left, scoring Wood and Hooper, and putting the Red Sox two runs to the good. Speaker struck out. Three runs, four hits, no errors.

Score:
R. H. E.
Boston 0 0 0 0 1 3 0 0—4 6 1
New York ... 0 0 2 0 0 0 0 1—3 8 1
Batteries—Wood and Cady; Tesreau, Crandall and Meyers.
Two-base hits—Doyle, Hooper, Yerkes and Gardner.
Three-base hit—Speaker.
Struck out—By Wood 11, by Tesreau 4, by Crandall 2.
Bases on balls—Off Wood 2, off Tesreau 4.

MRS. WOODROW WILSON.

Wife of the Democratic Presidential Nominee. Honorary President of the Woman's National Democratic League.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of the new leader of Democracy and probable next mistress of the White House, is perhaps the most interesting woman in the United States today. This is inevitable—not because she wishes it, for she does not—and is as firm as a rock in her conviction that being the wife of a public man does not necessitate nor call for a woman's becoming a publicity seeker. She successfully resisted all appeals of photographers and interviewers until Mr. Wilson's nomination as Democratic candidate for the presidency was an fait accompli. This modesty is easily traced to her southern ancestry and training and is characteristic also of her distinguished husband.

She was born Ellen Louise Axson, daughter of a Presbyterian divine of Savannah, Ga., whose family, so far as he knows, is the only one of the name in America.

Like Mr. Wilson, she has one brother and one sister living, all in the same literary circle as the doctor and herself.

In this atmosphere of learning Mrs. Wilson could hardly be expected to be other than she is—widely read, broadminded and charitable, devoted to her home and the principles for which it stands.

She has marked ability as an artist, and it is said that a portrait painter of ability was spoiled when she married the young barrister who had then given up the practice of his profession to specialize on the subject that has made him a presidential nominee.

Mrs. Wilson's three daughters—Misses Margaret Woodrow Wilson, Jessie Woodrow Wilson and Eleanor Randolph Wilson—possess the mental characteristics of their father and their mother's artistic temperament, combined in such a way as to give zest to every moment of their lives and protection from the foibles of the world. They form, indeed, an ideal family circle, one that it would be well for every American household to emulate.

Republicans Hard Hit By the Ruling Of the Court

Party Leaders on Effect of Supreme Court's Ruling in Bull Moose Case.

Columbus, O., Oct. 9.—The action of the supreme court in the two-ticket ruling of Secretary of State Graves, holding that it is without jurisdiction in the case, means that the Republican and Democratic congressional, legislative and county candidates who were endorsed by the Progressives will appear in the ballot in the tickets of the parties that originally nominated them—Republican and Democrat—and nowhere else. The endorsements will therefore, have only a moral effect.

Political leaders here declare the ruling is worth a great deal to the Democrats, for the Republican candidates will lose the support of all the Progressives who mark a cross in the circle over their state ticket and let it go at that.

Hold Up Train

Fort Smith, Ark., Oct. 9.—Rock Island passenger train No. 41, west-bound, was held up and the express and mail cars robbed near Howe, Okla. Safes in the express car were dynamited. The amount of booty stolen has not been learned.

Two Lads Struck by Train.
Xenia, O., Oct. 9.—Raymond and Clarence Horn, 15 and 17, respectively, were struck by a Pennsylvania passenger train in the local railroad yards and badly injured. Raymond may die. The boys were on their way to the Y. M. C. A. and stepped out of the way of a C. H. & D. freight in front of the passenger.

See the Mighty Michigan "40" at the Cincinnati Show

The famous Forty that everybody is talking about will be the feature of the Tri-State Vehicle and Implement Dealers' Exhibition at Music Hall, Cincinnati, October 14-19. Come and see it!

In hilly sections or on country roads one needs this power. And "40's" now offer more for the money than any other class of cars.

Things Needed

On such a car one needs electric lights with dynamo, then the lights are always ready. One needs tires 4 1/2 inches wide, to cut down tire upkeep. One needs four-forward-speed transmission—not merely three.

Center, control and left-side drive are very important. Then the driver sits close to the cars he passes.

One needs 14-inch Turkish cushions for comfort. One needs wide seats and ample room. Also wide, long springs.

For safety, brakes should be extra efficient. And all important parts should have at least 50 per cent over-capacity.

All for $1,585

The Michigan "40" offers all these features at $1,585. That's the record price on a car of this class.

This car is designed by W. H. Cameron, our engineer-in-chief. He has built 100,000 successful cars.

The body is designed by John A. Campbell, who has designed equipages for kings.

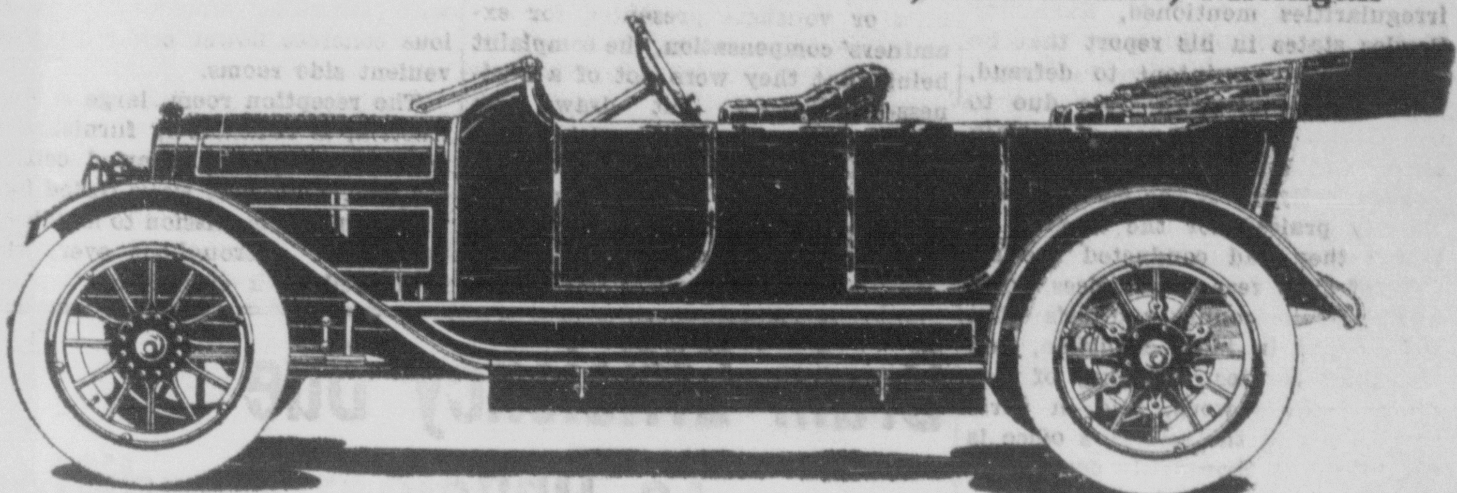

Prove This Yourself!

Now there isn't another car which gives so much for so little as does the Michigan "40."

To prove this we ask you to see the car itself at the Cincinnati Show. We will be glad to go over the car with you point by point.

DEALERS! If you are looking for the greatest agency offer of this year or any year—if you are dissatisfied with your present connection—if you are looking for the car that comes to you 90 per cent sold—this is your opportunity.

Called to His Door And Shot to Death By Pair of Toughs

Brothers the Victims of a Pair of Midnight Marauders.

North Vernon, Ind., Oct. 9.—Charles McQuaid, 71, and John McQuaid, 58, brothers, living together five miles southwest of this city, were called to the door at midnight and murdered by two unknown men. Charles McQuaid answered a knock at the back door and a man in the darkness told him his name was Kinder and that his wagon had broken down in the highway and he wished help. The man in the yard told McQuaid he wished a light, and Charles got a lantern. As soon as McQuaid stepped out, one of the men struck the lamp and then grabbed him. Charles called to his brother John, and when John appeared at the door he was shot through the heart. Charles was a powerful man and put up a desperate fight. He was stabbed and then shot in the hip, dying two hours later. The murderers, hearing the neighbors coming, fled, leaving no evidence by which they could be identified. The motive for the crime is supposed to have been robbery.

DON'T EAT SOAP.

Every now and then you get a faint taste of soap in something you eat. That is because the pot or skillet or saucepan has been cleaned (?) with ordinary yellow soap, and it has left a trace of the rancid fat and nauseating rosin in the vessel. If Easy Task soap is used, the cooking utensils are made absolutely clean and antiseptically sterilized. Families that use Easy Task soap seldom have a doctor's bill to pay, because it drives out disease germs with the dirt. One cake of it is worth two of other sorts.

They form, indeed, an ideal family circle, one that it would be well for every American household to emulate.

ond game of the world's series will be played this afternoon. A record crowd is assured, and all Hubbard is confidently expecting their favorites to trounce the Giants again. Ray Collins for Boston and Mathewson for New York are the probable pitchers. Some 15,000 persons have purchased reserved seats and more than this number will find places on the bleachers.

Boston's victory had its effect on both the betting and speculation in tickets. The betting, which has been 10 to 8 on the Red Sox, changed to 10 to 6. Tickets for the three games, which originally cost $9, were held at $25 apiece.

THE GOOD OLD TIMES.

There is a lot of talk about the "good old times." There weren't any "good old times," if you were talking about wash day or house cleaning. Those tasks meant red hands and headaches and backaches and trouble. Easy Task laundry soap would have made them "good" old times indeed. It does half the work in washing and cleaning; it drives the dirt out and not in; it doesn't shrink flannels or streak linens, and it hasn't any rosin in it to rot the fabrics. If your grocer isn't living in the good old times he sells it—lots of it!

Dissatisfied Automobile Agents!

Or the Man Looking for a Profitable Business

See the Mighty Michigan "40" at the Cincinnati Show

The famous Forty that everybody is talking about will be the feature of the Tri-State Vehicle and Implement Dealers' Exhibition at Music Hall, Cincinnati, October 14-19. Come and see it!

In hilly sections or on country roads one needs this power. And "40's" now offer more for the money than any other class of cars.

Things Needed

On such a car one needs electric lights with dynamo, then the lights are always ready. One needs tires 4 1/2 inches wide, to cut down tire upkeep. One needs four-forward-speed transmission—not merely three.

Center, control and left-side drive are very important. Then the driver sits close to the cars he passes.

One needs 14-inch Turkish cushions for comfort. One needs wide seats and ample room. Also wide, long springs.

For safety, brakes should be extra efficient. And all important parts should have at least 50 per cent over-capacity.

All for $1,585

The Michigan "40" offers all these features at $1,585. That's the record price on a car of this class.

This car is designed by W. H. Cameron, our engineer-in-chief. He has built 100,000 successful cars.

The body is designed by John A. Campbell, who has designed equipages for kings.

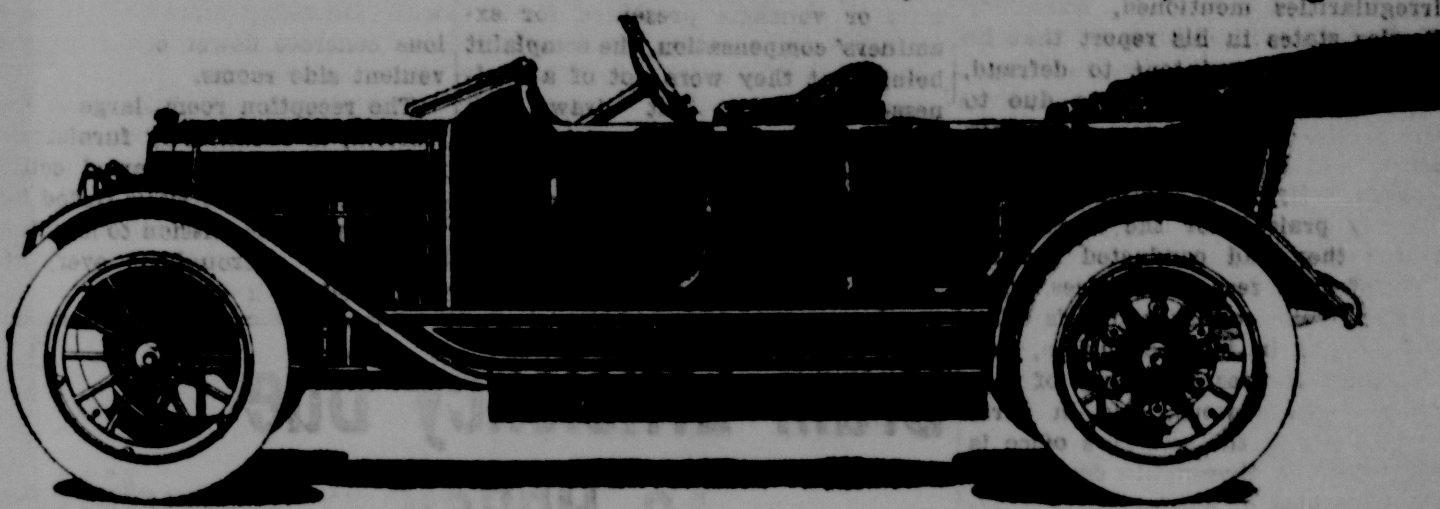

Prove This Yourself!

Now there isn't another car which gives so much for so little as does the Michigan "40."

To prove this we ask you to see the car itself at the Cincinnati Show. We will be glad to go over the car with you point by point.

DEALERS! If you are looking for the greatest agency offer of this year or any year—if you are dissatisfied with your present connection—if you are looking for the car that comes to you 90 per cent sold—this is your opportunity.

Called to His Door And Shot to Death By Pair of Toughs

Brothers the Victims of a Pair of Midnight Marauders.

North Vernon, Ind., Oct. 9.—Charles McQuaid, 71, and John McQuaid, 58, brothers, living together five miles southwest of this city, were called to the door at midnight and murdered by two unknown men. Charles McQuaid answered a knock at the back door and a man in the darkness told him his name was Kinder and that his wagon had broken down in the highway and he wished help. The man in the yard told McQuaid he wished a light, and Charles got a lantern. As soon as McQuaid stepped out, one of the men struck the lamp and then grabbed him. Charles called to his brother John, and when John appeared at the door he was shot through the heart. Charles was a powerful man and put up a desperate fight. He was stabbed and then shot in the hip, dying two hours later. The murderers, hearing the neighbors coming, fled, leaving no evidence by which they could be identified. The motive for the crime is supposed to have been robbery.

DON'T EAT SOAP.

Every now and then you get a faint taste of soap in something you eat. That is because the pot or skillet or saucepan has been cleaned (?) with ordinary yellow soap, and it has left a trace of the rancid fat and nauseating rosin in the vessel. If Easy Task soap is used, the cooking utensils are made absolutely clean and antiseptically sterilized. Families that use Easy Task soap seldom have a doctor's bill to pay, because it drives out disease germs with the dirt. One cake of it is worth two of other sorts.

Big Bunch of Posies Handed County Officials In Examiner's Report

Thos. Q. Bowles, of the State Bureau, Who Made an Examination Into County Affairs a Few Weeks Ago, Finds Nothing Wrong.

MINOR DETAILS ARE CRITICISED

Would Do Away With the Delinquent Tax Collectors—News-papers Are Also Complimented on Method of Handling Public Printing.

Auditor Henkle has just received the report of State Examiner Thos. Q. Bowles, who spent several weeks here recently, going over the books of the county and making a thorough examination covering the period of May, 1911 to July, 1912.

While there are a number of small irregularities mentioned, Examiner Bowles states in his report that he could detect no intent to defraud, but the irregularities were due to oversights, or ignorance of certain sections of the statutes.

Practically all of the officials were warmly praised for the manner in which they had conducted the affairs of their respective offices. The affairs of the county auditor's office were found in ideal condition, and Examiner Bowles, speaking of Auditor Henkle's work, said in part: "The work in the auditor's office is carefully and thoroughly done. Mr. Henkle's idea of conducting the auditor's office is of the modern business man. Result: System, neatness and no confusion. This official attends to duties of his office, and furthermore knows what those duties are".

Speaking of the sheriff's office, he said in part: "The cash book is in excellent condition and a model of good bookkeeping. In fact all of the records of the office show clear and comprehensive entries, and the deputy, on whom devolves the duty of keeping the same, is to be congratulated on his system." All quarterly reports and the affairs of the office were found all right, with "expense kept down to the minimum."

Three Barns Burn

Mr. Joseph Clark, of near Chilli-cothe, had the misfortune to have 3 barns, scales, sheds and all his farm implements burned on Sunday.

EXTENSIVE IMPROVEMENTS IN FLORAL GARDENS.

The Buck floral gardens have just completed a number of improvements that give to this magnificent plant first place among the largest and finest gardens in this part of the state.

Five new greenhouses have been built, each 35x125, immense in size, with 30,000 square feet of glass and all modern improvements, the "Garland" gutters, iron posts set in cement and cement foundations. This makes a total of 9 green houses, erected under the Deutsch construction, with Rogers and Fuels, contractors. The work was begun just after Decoration day and is only now being completed.

Some idea of the size of these gardens may be realized when it is known that there are over 11,000 carnations, 1500 snap dragons, 15,000 chrysanthemums, 3,000 plants in the rose house, 300 poinsettias, besides every other variety of plant, and two houses entirely of green, one of smilax and fern, one of palms.

Mrs. Buck has also built a tasteful new office and reception room, with adjoining work rooms, spacious concrete flower cellar and convenient side rooms.

The reception room, large and attractive, is handsomely furnished in mission style, with beamed ceiling, the panels and side walls tinted buff. The furniture is mission to match the woodwork. Throughout everything is lighted with electricity.

Brain Efficiency Due To Physical Condition

Physical Director McClung Writes Interesting Article Showing Why Gymnasium of Y. M. C. A. Is of Inestimable Benefit to All Citizens of Washington.

Those who have been enjoying the privileges of the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium have been both pleased and surprised with the splendid results coming from the time they spend in physical exercise in the gym, and some of the benefits derived are mentioned in the following able article from the pen of Physical Director, J. W. McClung, of the local Y. M. C. A.:

"When you think, it is not only your mind that thinks, but the whole man, and the process begins with your body. Your brain is a physical substance kept alive by the blood of your body. This blood circulates through your brain and supplies it with new material, just as it carries the oxidized tissues or waste matter. The same blood circulates through your muscles and all organs. You have some 500 complex mechanisms called muscles, which if trained will carry out your wishes. If your muscles and organs are kept in a state of health there is no danger of your blood carrying impurities to your brain, hence there is established a healthy equilibrium between mind and muscle which make efficiency.

"No system of intellectual, social or moral education is complete unless it gives due consideration to the relation which the development of the physical bears to the development of the higher attributes. The body is fundamental to any and all human endeavor, because it is the instrument of reception, expression and execution.

"Changed living conditions have deprived the human race of the necessity for vigorous occupational exercise. Modern means of transportation, the stenographer, telephone and various other modern conveniences enable man to quadruple his mental and at the same time actually decrease his muscular work, one's only essential is that he have a clear head and strength to sit in an office chair. Unfortunately this procedure finally leaves one with impaired physical functions. Therefore to maintain and improve the physical standards it is imperative that the men and boys take advantage of the opportunity for acquiring a strong, well-organized, active physique which functionates properly, acts quickly, helps clear thinking, accurate execution and moral stamina. The man with a strong healthy body, directed by a clear thinking brain, dominated by a strong moral personality, has life's battles half won before they are begun.

"The policy of the Physical department of the Young Men's Christian association of Washington is to provide means for scientific training for all classes and conditions of men and boys. With this end in view periods of instruction in all phases of physical education have been arranged at hours best suited to meet the needs of the largest number, but any one interested and needing special exercise will have the proper personal attention by arranging the same with the physical director.

Mrs. T. A. Town, 107 6th St., Waretown, S. D., writes: "My four children are subject to hard colds and I always use Foley's Honey and Tar Compound with splendid results. Some time ago I had a severe attack of la grippe and the doctor prescribed Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and it soon overcame the la grippe. I can always depend upon Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and am sure of good results." For all coughs and colds in children and grown persons, and for chronic coughs of elderly people. to Mr. Robert Ellwood Schenck, on Wednesday, the 9th of October, 1912, Washington C. H., Ohio.

At home after the first of December, 65 Stoddard avenue, Dayton, O. The bride is the granddaughter of Mrs. Mary Patton, with whom she has been making her home.

Miss Patton and Mr. Schenck were quietly married by Rev. William Irvin Campbell at the Presbyterian church this morning at ten o'clock, with only the young cousin of the bride, Miss Ruth Reid, in attendance.

As a complete surprise to the bride, five girls of the Presbyterian choir, Misses Inez Rodgers, Mazie Kessler, Iliah Moats, Essie Vincent, Mrs. Carey Howland, had transformed the chancel of the church into a bower of autumn beauty. Gold and scarlet autumn leaves, great bunches of scarlet salvia and a profusion of asparagus fern were arranged with artistic grace and against this background of rich October tinting the ring ceremony was performed.

The decorating of the church was a thoughtful tribute to the bride, who, as a member of the church choir and an active Sunday school worker, will be greatly missed. Not alone in church circles is her departure to a new home regretted.

Graduating from the High school a couple of years ago, she has retained school day friendships while adding to them friends galore among those of more mature years.

An exceedingly pretty girl, of the blonde type, tall and slender, she looked very chic in her going away gown, a handsome tailored suit of dark blue, hairlined in white, bodice of blue silk marquisette over grey satin and hat ensuite. At her throat was the bridegroom's gift, a diamond pendant.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. A. O. Schenck, of Dayton, and a member of the well known firm of Schenck and Williams, architects, of Dayton. He graduated in the architectural course from Cornell university two years ago and is already launched upon what promises to be an exceptionally successful business career. In addition to being a talented young architect he is a likable fellow popular in his home town and having already made friends in this city.

Mr. Schenck and his bride left on the 10:35 train from Columbus for an eastern trip, including a visit to his alma mater, Cornell university, at Ithaca, N. Y.

Mrs. Glascoe returned to her home in Peebles this morning after a short visit with her sister, Mrs. H. H. Brown.

Miss Tess Rosenstein, of Chicago, accompanied Mrs. Leo Katz up from Cincinnati last night to be Mrs. Katz's guest.

Mrs. Lulu H. Robinson came over from St. Clairsville this afternoon to be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. H. Harper for several days.

Mrs. J. F. Dennis returned Tuesday night from an extended visit with her daughter, Mrs. Howard Griffiths, in Hattiesburg, Mo.

Mr. F. L. Patterson and daughter, Miss Mae, and Miss Gertrude Janes spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Grimes of S. Sycamore St.

Hon. and Mrs. J. M. Willis, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Baker left this morning on a motoring trip to Mammoth caves and a tour of Southern Kentucky.

Mr. and Mrs. George Robinson and grandson, Chester Reeves, have given up their rooms at the Cherry hotel and returned to their home on Circle avenue.

Mrs. Charles Bell, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Rothrock, went to Columbus last evening to join her husband and make the Capitol City their home for the winter.

Mr. Ernest Ellis returned yesterday from Erie, Pa., where he has been connected with one of the leading jewelry stores. Mr. Ellis has resigned his position with the expectation of going South for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Hunt and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. McLean, leave in the morning on a motoring trip through Kentucky.

Mrs. Martin Grove, of Springfield, who has been the guest of Mrs. D. T. Veal for several days returned to her home today.

Road Must Sell Without Fail

The D. T. & I. railroad must sell on January 8th, 1913, according to Judge Tuttle, who made the last postponement from October 9, 1912, to January 8, 1913.

Judge Tuttle this week stated that the present adjournment would positively be the last, and that the road must sell if it brings only $2,000,000.

The last adjournment was made on behalf of the junior lien holders, who hope to obtain something from the receipts of the sale. As the road is watered for upward of $40,000,000, there is little hope of the junior lien holders realizing anything like their holdings.

For a long while the sale has been a joke and the people who are forced to accept the poor accommodations of the road have long since become thoroughly disgusted with the deal given them.

Tom Delay Goes To the Workhouse

Tom Delay, the well known character of the Frankfort neighborhood, was taken through this city to the Xenia workhouse Tuesday, to serve out a fine of $100 and the costs for bootlegging in Frankfort.

Delay was given ample time to raise the amount of the fine, but failed to do so, and was escorted to the workhouse by Sheriff Stoker.

The sentence marks the final downfall of a once prominent citizen, who has been on the downward road for some time, and recently went into bankruptcy. He was perfectly indifferent as to his fate, and said the sooner he was in the works the better it would suit him.

Leg Crushed In Long Fall

While high up in a hickory-nut tree in upper Ross county, Robert Myers, aged 18, fell to the ground and was probably fatally injured a day or two ago.

The young man sustained, among other injuries, a badly broken leg, and during a state of semi-consciousness after the fall he pulled a long sliver of the broken bone from the wound and threw it away.

When the physicians examined the wound and found that a section of bone was missing, they instituted a search. Amputation will probably be necessary, as the bone penetrated and badly lacerated the flesh.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS TERRORIZES HILLSBORO

Board of Health of Neighboring City Takes Drastic Measures to Prevent Spread of Deadly Disease Which Causes Death of One Child--All Public Places Closed to Children Under 18.

Hillsboro is all excitement over the appearance of the dreaded infantile paralysis, spinal meningitis, or spotted fever, as the disease is variously termed. The affliction has already caused one death, and all parents are fearful lest a general outbreak occur.

When it became known that infantile paralysis had made its appearance and that one child had succumbed to it, the Board of Health of Hillsboro met and ordered all Sunday schools, churches, five-cent shows and other places closed to all children under 18 years of age.

The schools were ordered closed and the buildings thoroughly fumigated. Parents were urged to keep their children off the streets, and from congregating. All of the orders are to be in force for two weeks.

Not only is Hillsboro wrought up over the threatened epidemic, but the entire countryside around Hillsboro, as the disease is not generally understood by the public, and it is a difficult affliction to successfully treat.

The order of the Hillsboro Board of Health was deemed the only sure way of preventing a general epidemic of infantile paralysis, and it is believed the precaution will have the desired effect.

NATURE IS NEVER UNKIND

Provides Compensation in Some Way for Those Who Suffer From Affliction.

When the third question put to the girl who was tinting a customer's hair a fashionable shade elicited no reply the woman turned to the manager of the beauty shop and said: "What is the matter with that girl, anyhow? Is she deaf?"

"Very nearly," said the manager. "How does she hold her place?" said the woman. "It seems to me that a person employed in a place like this stands in need of her five senses."

"That is just what they do not need," was the reply. "If one sense is lacking the other four make up for the deficiency and become more valuable because more acute. Your hair-dresser cannot hear, but her sight is marvelous. She can detect a gray hair half a block away and her gift for shading and matching colors amounts to real genius. No woman with all her faculties is so consummate an artist as she is in touching up a difficult head of hair. When you are ready for massage I shall bring you a blind girl. All her art is centered in her finger tips. She can find and smooth away wrinkles that less sensitive fingers would not discover. Another deaf girl in the establishment is particularly sensitive to scents and is invaluable in mixing and applying perfumes. The manager in a place of this kind needs her five senses and as many more as nature can provide, but for her assistants, elimination and concentration are desirable."

Musical Insects.

A carefully trained mind and ear are indispensable to enable one to detect and to discriminate readily from the general insect melody any particular species of musician.

As with birds and their songs, much of the charm and pleasure to be gotten from insect music depends on the emotional coloring associated with it. We are enraptured with the notes of the peep in spring, or the earlier ping of the frogs, not because these sounds in themselves possess any intrinsic sweetness, but because they recall endearing memories of many happy, hopeful springtimes. They are always the harbingers of another verdant season. Their plaintive notes add to our minds an emotional warmth and sunshine. The yawaken for us an inner, subjective springtime.

In a similar way the crickets and katydids gladden and inspire us with their music in proportion as their notes have become associated in our minds with the emotional coloring of past memories—Country Life in America.

Care of Your Umbrella.

A soft silk wears the best in an umbrella. A steel frame is lighter to carry and admits of a closer roll. When carrying your umbrella on the street not in use, keep it furled; if hanging in your closet keep its case on. In fact, it presents a very neat appearance if the case is on when it is carried. To furl, grasp the stick in the right hand, shake out the folds, wrap them closely around the stick, beginning at the lower end, and smooth as they are wrapped around the stick, then fasten with the silk band on the silk cover.

When coming in with a wet umbrella, wipe off the handle and ferrule, and furl the silk sections. If the silk gets a spot on it, remove it with a silk cloth, warm water and soap. Clean a gold or silver handle in warm soapsuds, rub up a wooden handle with a very slightly oily cloth.

ALWAYS TIME FOR COURTESY

Even in This Age of Rush and Hustle the Wise Person Will Never Neglect It.

"Life is not so short but there is always time enough for courtesy."

So says the wisest of American philosophers, Ralph Waldo Emerson, and all will agree with him.

It is said, however, that this most pleasing quality has deteriorated since the days of chivalry, and since the time has grown so short for the accomplishment of all that we have to do in this busy, bustling world. But this should not be. Gracious courtesy is well worth the trouble which it entails. It costs but so little to bestow, and yet means so much to the recipient.

Lord Lytton, the polished novelist and gentleman, tells us: "What a rare gift is that of manners! How difficult to define—how much more difficult to impart!"

The receipt is given by Emerson in these few words, "Good manners are made up of petty sacrifices."

Not big sacrifices, but petty sacrifices. It is the little things that tell, and the courteous man is careful to do little things to help his friends and please them.

Wherever they be, all hearts of gentle strain.

Still cannot choose but courtesy pursue; For they from nature and habit gain What they henceforth can never more undo.

These are the words of the Italian bard, which tell at once of the need and the advantage of courtesy.

But if we would fully appreciate the charm of courtesy we should view it in contrast with that most abhorrent churlishness by which some portion of the humanity seem to like to be distinguished. Let us be courteous ourselves and learn our manners from the unmanly, as did Lucian the fabulist.

BORES ON RAILROAD TRAINS

Woman Complains of Talkative Fellow Travelers Who Insist on Revealing Secrets.

It is strange how many people, when traveling, are so bored with their own society that they will talk to whatever stranger they can force to listen—yes, and tell their heart's secrets, too. Once, in the dressing room of a Pullman, a woman whom I have never seen from that day to this, told me with exact detail all about a recent scandal in her family which they had kept out of the papers only by the most strenuous effort. Yet for all she knew, I might have been a reporter and I must say I longed to frighten her for her indiscretion by telling her that I was one!

Less serious confidences are frequent. "I've hardly a hair on my head that's my own," whispers the woman who has come over from the next section ostensibly to offer you a magazine, but really to hear herself talk. "These puffs cost $20—and altogether I've bought over $100 worth of braids and switches." Pleasant thought!

It is much more difficult to handle the cheerful, expansive woman traveler who has made up her mind to talk to one of her own sex and who is at heart a very good sort, but who merely happens to be a frightful bore, than it is to discourage the advances of the offensive traveling man, who, seeing a woman alone, feels that he can follow up his rude stares with conversation. Usually a curt monosyllabic answer or no answer at all will sufficiently crush him—but you cannot deal out that sort of treatment to your own sex.—Exchange.

OLD MILL OF NEW LONDON

The old town mill at New London, Conn., was built by Gov. John Winthrop, the founder of New London, in 1651. The stream on which it was built was called Mill river, although scarcely deserving to be called a river. It is still, however, considerable of a stream and still turns the great over-shot wheel that runs the mill to grind the town corn, for the mill is still in operation and grinds the corn in the same primitive fashion of two centuries ago. The shadowy, rocky glen in which it is situated has no appearance of ever having been disturbed since the founder's time, and one could scarcely imagine that the glen was more wild or primeval or its gloom more deep when the first few inhabitants of the town assembled in 1651 to build the dam than it is at present.

That monopolies are not of the present day alone is told by the following, taken from the history of New London. When Gov. John Winthrop built his mill this clause was incorporated in the bargain: "Further it is agreed that no person or persons shall set up any other mill to grind corn for the town of Pequot (now New London) within the limits of the town either for the present or the future so long as John Winthrop or his heirs do uphold a mill to grind the town corn."

The mill being a monopoly could not fail of becoming a grievance. It soon became insufficient for a growing community. It was leased to other parties and they failing to satisfy the townspeople, a complaint was made to the courts "that they were not duly served and were much damaged thereby," and in 1712 the monopoly was broken and other mills built.

PEACOCK-GOD OF YEZIDIS

When Queen Mary was in India last winter she admired a steel image of the sacred peacock of the Yezidis, in a curio established at Delhi. The proprietor now has given it to the British Museum. The Yezidis, a race scattered over Kurdistan, Armenia and the Caucasus, worship the redeemed devil in the semblance of a peacock under the name of Malik-Tawus. They believe he has regained his place in heaven as the highest of the archangels. This particular image is thought to have been made about 200 years ago. In the center of the tail is a veiled figure of a man, probably the Yezidi saint, Shakh Adi.

ORGAN CACTUS OF MEXICO

The giant organ cactus gives a picturesque setting to the desert region of western Mexico. These thorny species of vegetation often tower to heights of 20 to 40 feet, their symmetrical columns rising upward in clusters, giving the tree a unique and attractive appearance. This particular cactus is of very slow growth, and some of the trees in the Pacific coast country of Mexico are said to be several hundred years old. The trunk is often three or four feet in diameter and the limbs to which the columns of thorny branches are attached extend outward in a regular and well formed fashion. To the native Mexicans this cactus is often food and drink as well as fuel. The more tender portions of the plant contain a bountiful supply of pure water which may be had by tapping or cutting them, and each season they bear large quantities of edible food. The trunk makes good fuel and is often used for that purpose.

"HUSBAND FAIR" BIG EVENT

Really the Ceremony of the Year in Quaint Belgian Village of Ecuassines.

Brussels, Belgium.—The tenth annual "husband fair" of the quaint little village of Ecuassines, situated a few miles from the Belgian capital, was held recently.

Just about a decade ago the maidens of the town resolved to take active steps to remedy the serious falling off in the number of eligible young bachelors. Believing in the well-known "feed the wretch" principle, they organized a breakfast, consisting chiefly of those dainty little cakes for which the Belgians are noted, washed down with delicious coffee and fresh cream. All the girls of the town club together to pay the cost of the breakfast, the excursions, and the ball which terminates the eventful day's proceedings.

At nine o'clock in the morning sprightly young bachelors arrive from all parts of the kingdom by train and proceed direct to the town hall, where they sign their names in the "Golden Book" of the "Girls' Marriage Society." Half an hour later they are served with breakfast by the young ladies, who are headed by their own elected "president." The ice now being to some extent broken, the young men and maidens set off to visit the quarries and the fine old church of which the inhabitants are justly proud.

Naturally the young ladies lead the way, but they often cast furtive glances at the crowds of young men who follow with great docility. At half-past eleven a visit is made to the old fifteenth century castle, which affords excellent opportunities for bringing the young people a little closer together.

At noon everybody goes to lunch—the men to restaurants and the girls to their homes. The latter tell their anxious parents about the morning's happenings.

Lunch must be finished by half-past one, as this is the time fixed for the official reception of the bachelors by the young ladies. The "president" makes a speech in which she offers a hearty welcome to the young men, and extols the charms of married life with the wife of one's choice. A blare of trumpets signals the end of her discourse, and dancing now begins in every available open space, or in the town hall if the weather is unfavorable. The young couples sort themselves out, and a number of engagements, followed by happy marriages, forms a fitting conclusion to the picturesque "Husband Fair" of Ecuassines.

SELF-SUPPORT FOR BLIND

Maine School to Pay Them for Work at Trades—Will Make Brooms and Weave Rugs.

Portland, Me.—If the plan which Millard W. Baldwin, the new head of the Maine School for the Blind in this city, is to put into operation when the next term of the school opens proves a success there will be no blind person buried in a pauper's grave or go to a hospital as a charity patient in the future.

This school is an industrial one, where the blind are taught to make brooms, cane chairs, weave rugs and other trades such as are adaptable to the blind. In the past those who went there have received no compensation for their labor. They were given their board and no more.

By Mr. Baldwin's plan each man and woman will be paid on the piece system. At the end of each week his or her board will be deducted. In addition a certain per cent, according to the amount earned, will be taken out and deposited in the earner's credit in a savings bank. So long as the blind person remains in the school this money cannot be drawn from the bank by him or her, except by the approval of the trustees of the school. In this way a fund will be created for each pupil for use in later life. Another feature which will be introduced in the school by the new superintendent is that of reading the newspapers to them. A certain hour will be designated, when all will gather in the big hall of the school and Mr. Baldwin will read the important news of the day to them.

Mr. Baldwin is a native of the State of New York and was for many years connected with the educational work of that state, both as a teacher and a supervisor of schools. For several years past he has been engaged in business in Maine, but was induced to take his present position because of a lifelong interest in the work of teaching those afflicted with loss of eyesight.

ROWDY PLAYERS GONE

Class of Men Better Than in Former Years.

Catcher Joe Sugden Says Ball Tossing Would Be Insane to Attempt to Drink Steadily Under Modern Conditions of Game.

"Leaving aside all considerations as to whether the game of baseball has progressed—and personally I think it has—there can be no argument over the fact that the class of players is better now than it was in the old days," says Joe Sugden, the former St. Paul catcher.

"A modern big league baseball club is as well behaved a body of men as you will find anywhere. There used to be a time when the best hotels fought shy of the ball tossers, but now the landlords fight to get them. A man would be insane if he tried to drink steadily under modern conditions. The game is too fast for anyone but an athlete in splendid condition."

"Instead of reporting in the spring saturated with a winter's accumulation of alcoholics as did some of the old-timers, the men of today, or at least most of them, are about ready to get in and play ball when they arrive at the training camps. There are some of the fellows who naturally accumulate flesh in the cold months when they do not get much exercise, but there are very few who put on any fat through the medium of beer."

"No big league scout nowadays will recommend a player who has the reputation of being a steady drinker, even though he doesn't lap them up to excess. There is no room in the leagues for the saloon boys, and it doesn't take anyone long to learn that baseball and booze are not good friends."

"If a saloon keeper could be assured the patronage of the entire American and National leagues, he wouldn't be able to pay rent. I do not mean that every big leaguer is a teetotaler, but there are a lot of abstainers and a vast majority will take only a couple of glasses of beer a day."

"The rowdy is passing from baseball rapidly and the sooner he disappears entirely the better it will be for the game. Naturally the improvement in the big leagues is having its effect on the smaller circuits. The minor players realize that they have little chance of going up if their reputations are bad, and with scouts lurking around all the time, it pays to cut out the rough stuff."

"Baseball ought to be a gentleman's business, and the players who deserve the name of gentlemen are becoming more numerous season after season. If a fellow can't act the part, he better find some other occupation."

Mr. Jas. V. Churchill, 90 Wall St., Auburn, N. Y., has been bothered with serious kidney and bladder trouble ever since he left the army, and says: "I decided to try Foley Kidney Pills as they had cured so many people and I soon found they were just the thing. My kidneys and bladder are again in a healthy condition. I gladly recommend them." Many an old soldier has never recovered the effects of army life. Foley Kidney Pills are tonic in action, quick in results. The genuine in a yellow package. Blackmer & Tanquary, Druggists.

TAUGHT EXPERTS A LESSON

Accident While Casting Cannon Resulted in Foundation of Present English Gun Factory.

We owe our present arsenal at Woolwich to an accident. The government had a gun foundry in Moorfields, where, upon one occasion, in the year 1716, a distinguished party were gathered together to witness the operation of casting a large cannon. A young foreigner, named Schlach, who seems to have been almost an rect, he was released to Detroit, and thence to Kansas City. That move made it necessary for inter-league waivers to be secured on him and the transfer was held up.

Mrs. Paul Wehling, 316 Smith St., Peoria, Ill., had kidney and bladder trouble, with terrible backache and pain across the hips. Just imagine her condition. She further says: "I was also very nervous, had headaches and dizzy spells, and was fast getting worse when I took Foley Kidney Pills, and now all my troubles are cured. Foley Kidney Pills have done so much for me I shall always recommend them." Foley Kidney Pills are rich in curative qualities and contain no habit forming drugs. Try them. entire stranger, but who was well acquainted with the details of casting, noticed that one of the molds had been insufficiently dried, and warned the molders against using it. They disregarded his advice, and when he saw that he could not prevail upon them to desist, he immediately put himself well out of harm's way before the cannon was cast. A terrible explosion occurred when the molten metal rushed into the wet mold, owing to the sudden generation of steam that could find no outlet, and several persons were killed and a large number injured.

It is said that search was made for the man whose predictions had been so painfully verified, and that the government employed him to advise about the best mode of preventing such accidents in future. The result was that Moorfields was given up as a site of a gun foundry altogether, and upon his advice the establishment was removed to the Warren at Woolwich.—London Tit-Bits.

OLD ENGLISH CHURCH

QUAINT DURHAM STRUCTURE DATES BACK TO SAXON TIMES.

Merrington Kirk, Apart From Its Antiquity, Is Interesting to the Tourist Through a Peculiarly Gruesome Happening.

London, England.—One of the old and interesting churches of England, dating back to Saxon times, is Kirk Merrington, a strong structure, which crowns a hill in the village of Merrington in Durham county. The few old, straight-backed oak pews, which it contains, as well as the gargoyles and elves, carved upon the ends of the roof beams, just under the eaves, which look down upon the beholder, some with protruding tongues, others with a hideous grimace, the quaint windows and the general air of antiquity, all tend to throw around the structure that curtain of mystery which infallibly encircles these landmarks of bygone England.

Merrington Kirk is also famous in another respect, for its eaves shelter the tomb of the victims of the last man gibbeted and hanged in chains in the County of Durham. It is inscribed as follows:

Here lies the bodies of John, Jane and Elizabeth, children of John and Margaret Brass, who were murdered the 23rd day of Jan. 1683.

By Andrew Mills, their Father's servant, For which he was executed and hung in chains.

Reader, remember, sleeping We were slain And sleep till we must Rise again.

"Whoso sheddeth man's blood, by man Shall his blood be shed." "Thou shalt do no murder." Restored by subscription in 1798.

As sample of English as it was written toward the close of the seventeenth century and of the involved and confusing method of composition then employed we reprint the following account of the tragedy as set down at the time of the murder, in 1683:

"A sad, cruel murder was committed by a boy about 18 or 19 years of age, here Ferryhill near Durham being Thursday night. The manner is by report, when the parents was out of doors a young man, being some to the house, and two daughters was killed by this boy with an axe having knock'd yin in ye head, afterwards cut their throats, one yin being asleep in ye bed about 10 or 11 years of age, the other daughter was to be married at Candlemas. After he kill'd the eldest daughter, being about 20 years of age, a little lais, her sister, about the age of 11 years, being in bed alone, he drag'd her out of bed, and kill'd her also. This same Andrew Mills alias Miles, was hanged in irons upon a gybett nere Ferry hill upon the 15th day of August, being Wednesday, this year, 1683."

There is little need of entering further into the details of this gruesome tragedy. Mills, or Miles, who said that the devil had told him to commit the crimes, was seized by troopers and after trial was gibbeted in chains on a common, by the roadside, near Ferryville. A tradition, let us hope untrue, exists to the effect that he revived after the gibbeting and lived in awful torture for several days, being in the meantime fed by his sweetheart. A portion of the gibbet on which he was hanged stood for many years afterward, until a belief grew up that it possessed a charm for the toothache, when the people ate it piecemeal.

"MOVIES" IN N. Y. SCHOOLS

Pictures Will Be Used in New York to Teach History and Geography.

New York.—The moving picture is about to be introduced in the classrooms of New York city public schools. During the past year it was tried out semi-officially in the assembly halls of several downtown schools. The principals have been very enthusiastic. The motion picture is able to render the greatest assistance in geography and history. Mr. Edson has perfected his miniature moving picture machine, especially suitable for the home and the school-room.

OHIO HAPPENINGS

Trusty Walks Away.

Columbus, O., Oct. 9.—John Lockhart, 45 colored, trusty at the pen, made his escape by walking away. He has been working with a gang of convicts hauling dirt outside the pen walls. Lockhart was serving three years from Perry county for shooting to wound and was received at the pen Jan. 30, 1912. As soon as Warden Jones was apprised of Lockhart's escape he immediately discharged Guard Ehret Ross of Franklin county, who was in charge of the gang of prisoners working outside.

Judges May Contribute.

Columbus, O., Oct. 9.—Candidates for common pleas and circuit judgeships may contribute funds to political committees just so long as what they give added to what they expend for campaign purposes does not exceed $2,500, which is the maximum amount a judicial candidate may expend, according to law. This is what Attorney General Hogan holds in an opinion to Prosecuting Attorney W. H. Smith of Noble county, who asked for an interpretation of the corrupt practices act.

IDEAL FOR THE FISHERMAN

Gunnison River, Colorado's Famous Stream, Has Reputation That Is World Wide.

Denver.—The Gunnison river flows or rather leaps, down the western slope of Colorado and is famed for its trout. Enthusiastic anglers frequently journey there from England to whip its turbulent waters during the fishing season, as the trout in this ice cold stream are celebrated for their exquisite flavor, and for their fighting qualities as well.

This picturesque stream after flowing placidly through a beautiful broad valley, hemmed in by snow capped peaks, suddenly breaks its leash and plunges into a series of rapids and cascades where it enters the Black Canon at Sapinero, whose granite walls rise on either side to a perpendicular height of from two thousand to three thousand feet above the foaming stream. It continues its tortuous course through this chasm for upward of thirty miles before it emerges into another valley at State Bridge, three thousand feet lower than where it entered the canon.

The trout fishing is along the upper half of the canon, which is traversed by a narrow gauge railroad. The lower half of the canon is impassable. Only three men ever made the trip through it. They were government engineers who were reconnoitering for a location for the Gunnison tunnel to irrigate the Uncompahgre Valley. Their strong raft was wrecked, their instruments and clothing were lost and they were rescued in an exhausted condition.

Below the canon so much alkali and soil are discharged into the stream by the irrigating ditches that trout cannot live in it, but suckers flourish there, often attaining a length of from eighteen to twenty inches. During the latter part of May the suckers go up the small tributaries to spawn. After spawning they return in schools, tail first, to the river. These small streams are rocky and swift, and if the fish did not slacken speed by swimming against the current they might be bruised against the rocks.

In the pools where the water was two or three feet deep the fish were so numerous that it was no uncommon occurrence to throw out three and four fish with each thrust of the fork. The fish were weak and sluggish after spawning and did not make much effort to get out of the way. The old woman brought out two washing ubs, a washbowl and a large dishpan, all of which were filled within half an hour with fish from twelve to eighteen inches in length, which she skinned and salted down for future use. She lamented that the fish were "gettin' skarcer every year."

"Why, at comin' down time three years ago me and my old man got right onto a wagon load in no time," she said.

TAKES BEAR IN BATHING

Maid in Silk Bathing Suit, When Dared to Take Bruin Along, Promptly Does So.

Los Angeles, Cal.—Miss Anna Fredericks, a comely beach girl, went swimming through the breakers at Venice accompanied by a half-grown cinnamon bear.

Miss Fredericks was one of the thousands of bathers along the ocean front. She was clad in an attractive silk bathing suit and was accompanied by several friends, when R. I. Pierce of Pasadena strolled by, leading two half-grown cinnamon bears, which he secured in Northern California when the bears were only a few weeks old.

"I dare you to take one of the bears in swimming," said a friend to Miss Fredericks.

The young woman took the dare. Her escort, after futile attempts at dissuasion, secured one of the bears. The little animal was quite tame and trotted down to the surf line with Miss Fredericks.

Thousands of beach visitors thronged the water front to watch the novel performance. At first the little bear snorted and fussed as the spray splashed over his nose, but finally, with a little grunt, he ducked into the breakers and followed the leash which Miss Fredericks carried.

Lords in the Making.

ALAN DAWSON, a New York editor, says he was in London when the question of making 500 new lords was agitating England, and that he happened to be in the press gallery of the house of commons when the subject was under discussion.

"It was an exciting time," said Dawson. "A list of names was under consideration. I listened until the house had disposed of three and had elected their titles. The first man decided upon was General Booth of the Salvation army. It was set forth that his title was to be Lord Savaus. The next was Mr. Patterson, the big baggage and express man of London, and his title was to be Lord Deliverus. The third was Mr. Pink, who owns the largest jam factory in England. They fixed his title as Lord Preserverus. Then I came away."—Saturday Evening Post.

ROWDY PLAYERS GONE

Class of Men Better Than in Former Years.

Butcher Joe Sugden Says Ball Tossers Would Be Insane to Attempt to Drink Steadily Under Modern Conditions of Game.

"Leaving aside all consider: 'ions as to whether the game of baseball has progressed—and personally I think it has—there can be no argument over the fact that the class of players is better now than it was in the old days," says Joe Sugden, the former St. Paul catcher.

"A modern big league baseball club is a well behaved body of men as you will find anywhere. There used to be a time when the best hotels fought shy of the ball tossers, but now the landlords fight to get them. A man would be insane if he tried to drink steadily under modern conditions. The game is too fast for anyone but an athlete in splendid condition.

"Instead of reporting in the spring maturated with a winter's accumulation of alcoholics as did some of the old-timers, the men of today, or at least most of them, are about ready to get in and play ball when they arrive at the training camps. There are some of the fellows who naturally accumulate flesh in the cold months when they do not get much exercise, but there are very few who put on any fat through the medium of beer.

"No big league scout nowadays will recommend a player who has the reputation of being a steady drinker, even though he doesn't lap them up to excess. There is no room in the leagues for the saloon boys, and it doesn't take anyone long to learn that baseball and booze are not good friends.

"If a saloon keeper could be assured the patronage of the entire American and National leagues, he wouldn't be able to pay rent. I do not mean that every big league is a teetotaler, but there are a lot of abstainers and a vast majority will take only a couple of glasses of beer a day.

"The rowdy is passing from baseball rapidly and the sooner he disappears entirely the better it will be for the game. Naturally the improvement in the big leagues is having its effect on the smaller circuits. The minor players realize that they have little chance of going up if their reputations are bad, and, with scouts lurking around all the time, it pays to cut out the rough stuff.

"Baseball ought to be a gentleman's business, and the players who deserve the name of gentlemen are becoming more numerous season after season. If a fellow can't act the part, he better find some other occupation."

Mr. Jas. V. Churchill, 90 Wall St., Auburn, N. Y., has been bothered with serious kidney and bladder trouble ever since he left the army, and says: "I decided to try Foley Kidney Pills as they had cured so many people and I soon found they were just the thing. My kidneys and bladder are again in a healthy condition. I gladly recommend them." Many an old soldier has never recovered the effects of army life. Foley Kidney Pills are tonic in action, quick in results. The genuine in a yellow package. Blackmer & Tanquary, Druggists.

TAUGHT EXPERTS A LESSON

Accident While Casting Cannon Resulted in Foundation of Present English Gun Factory.

We owe our present arsenal at Woolwich to an accident. The government had a gun foundry in Moorfields, where, upon one occasion, in the year 1716, a distinguished party were gathered together to witness the operation of casting a large cannon. A young foreigner, named Schlach, who seems to have been almost an rect, he was released to Detroit, and thence to Kansas City. That move made it necessary for inter-league waivers to be secured on him and the transfer was held up.

Mrs. Paul Wehling, 316 Smith St., Peoria, Ill., had kidney and bladder trouble, with terrible backache and pain across the hips. Just imagine her condition. She further says: "I was also very nervous, had headaches and dizzy spells, and was fast getting worse when I took Foley Kidney Pills, and now all my troubles are cured. Foley Kidney Pills have done so much for me I shall always recommend them." Foley Kidney Pills are rich in curative qualities and contain no habit forming drugs. Try them. entire stranger, but who was well acquainted with the details of casting, noticed that one of the molds had been insufficiently dried, and warned the molders against using it. They disregarded his advice, and when he saw that he could not prevail upon them to desist, he immediately put himself well out of harm's way before the cannon was cast. A terrible explosion occurred when the molten metal rushed into the wet mold, owing to the sudden generation of steam that could find no outlet, and several persons were killed and a large number injured.

It is said that search was made for the man whose predictions had been so painfully verified, and that the government employed him to advise about the best mode of preventing such accidents in future. The result was that Moorfields was given up as a site of a gun foundry altogether, and upon his advice the establishment was removed to the Warren at Woolwich.—London Trib-Bits.

OLD ENGLISH CHURCH

QUAINT DURHAM STRUCTURE DATES BACK TO SAXON TIMES.

Merrington Kirk, Apart From Its Antiquity, Is Interesting to the Tourist Through a Peculiarly Gruesome Happening.

London, England.—One of the old and interesting churches of England, dating back to Saxon times, is Kirk Merrington, a strong structure, which crowns a hill in the village of Merrington in Durham county. The few old, straight-backed oak pews, which it contains, as well as the gargoyles and elves, carved upon the ends of the roof beams, just under the eaves, which look down upon the beholder, some with protruding tongues, others with a hideous grimace, the quaint windows and the general air of antiquity, all tend to throw around the structure that curtain of mystery which infallibly encircles these landmarks of bygone England.

Merrington Kirk is also famous in another respect, for its eaves shelter the tomb of the victims of the last man gibbeted and hanged in chains in the County of Durham. It is inscribed as follows:

Here lies the bodies of John, Jane and Elizabeth, children of John and Margaret Brass, who were murdered the 28th day of Jan. 1683.

By Andrew Mills, their Father's servant, For which he was executed and hung in chains.

Reader, remember, sleeping We were slain And sleep till we must Rise again.

"Whoso sheddeth man's blood, by man Shall his blood be shed." "Thou shalt do no murder." Restored by subscription in 1798.

As sample of English as it was written toward the close of the seventeenth century and of the involved and confusing method of composition then employed we reprint the following account of the tragedy as set down at the time of the murder, in 1683:

"A sad, cruel murder was committed by a boy about 18 or 19 years of age, here Perryhill here Durham being Thursday night. The manner is by report, when the parents was out of doors a young man, being some to the house, and two daughters was killed by this boy with an axe having knock'd yin in ye head, afterwards cut their throats, one yin being asleep in ye bed about 10 or 11 years of age, the other daughter was to be married at Candlemas. After he kill'd the eldest daughter, being about 20 years of age, a little lafs, her sister, about the age of 11 years, being in bed alone, he drag'd her out of bed, and kill'd her also. This same Andrew Mills alias Miles, was hanged in irons upon a key bett here Ferry hill upon the 15th day Merrington Church, said to be of August, being Wednesday, this year, 1683."

There is little need of entering further into the details of this gruesome tragedy. Mills, or Miles, who said that the devil had told him to commit the crimes, was seized by troops and after trial was gibbeted in chains on a common, by the roadside, near Ferryville. A tradition, let us hope untrue, exists to the effect that he revived after the gibbeting and lived in awful torture for several days, being in the meantime fed by his sweetheart. A portion of the gibbet on which he was hanged stood for many years afterward, until a belief grew up that it possessed a charm for the toothache, when the people ate it piecemeal.

"MOVIES" IN N. Y. SCHOOLS

Pictures Will Be Used in New York to Teach History and Geography.

New York.—The moving picture is about to be introduced in the classrooms of New York city public schools. During the past year it was tried out semi-officially in the assembly halls of several downtown schools. The principals have been very enthusiastic. The motion picture is able to render the greatest assistance in geography and history. Mr. Edison has perfected his miniature moving picture machine, especially suitable for the home and the school-room.

IDEAL FOR THE FISHERMAN

Gunnison River, Colorado's Famous Stream, Has Reputation That Is World Wide.

Denver.—The Gunnison river flows, or rather leaps, down the western slope of Colorado and is famed for its trout. Enthusiastic anglers frequently journey there from England to whip its turbulent waters during the fishing season, as the trout in this ice cold stream are celebrated for their exquisite flavor, and for their fighting qualities as well.

This picturesque stream after flowing placidly through a beautiful broad valley, hemmed in by snow capped peaks, suddenly breaks its leash and plunges into a series of rapids and cascades where it enters the Black Canon at Sapinero, whose granite walls rise on either side to a perpendicular height of from two thousand to three thousand feet above the foaming stream. It continues its tortuous course through this chasm for upward of thirty miles before it emerges into another valley at State Bridge, three thousand feet lower than where it entered the canon.

The trout fishing is along the upper half of the canon, which is traversed by a narrow gauge railroad. The lower half of the canon is impassable. Only three men ever made the trip through it. They were government engineers who were reconnoitering for a location for the Gunnison tunnel to irrigate the Uncompahgre Valley. Their strong raft was wrecked, their instruments and clothing were lost and they were rescued in an exhausted condition.

Below the canon so much alkali and soil are discharged into the stream by the irrigating ditches that trout cannot live in it, but suckers flourish there, often attaining a length of from eighteen to twenty inches. During the latter part of May the suckers go up the small tributaries to spawn. After spawning they return in schools, tail first, to the river. These small streams are rocky and swift, and if the fish did not slacken speed by swimming against the current they might be bruised against the rocks.

In the pools where the water was two or three feet deep the fish were so numerous that it was no uncommon occurrence to throw out three and four fish with each thrust of the fork. The fish were weak and sluggish after spawning and did not make much effort to get out of the way. The old woman brought out two washing boards, a washbottle and a large dishpan, all of which were filled within half an hour with fish from twelve to eighteen inches in length, which she skinned and salted down for future use. She lamented that the fish were "gettin' skeerer every year."

"Why, at comin' down time three years ago me and my old man got high onto a wagon load in no time," she said.

TAKES BEAR IN BATHING

Maid in Silk Bathing Suit, When Dared to Take Bruin Along, Promptly Does So.

Los Angeles, Cal.—Miss Anna Fredericks, a comely beach girl, went swimming through the breakers at Venice accompanied by a half-grown cinnamon bear.

Miss Fredericks was one of the thousands of bathers along the ocean front. She was clad in an attractive silk bathing suit and was accompanied by several friends, when R. I. Pierce of Pasadena strolled by, leading two half-grown cinnamon bears, which he secured in Northern California when the bears were only a few weeks old.

"I dare you to take one of the bears in swimming," said a friend to Miss Fredericks.

The young woman took the dare. Her escort, after futile attempts at dissuasion, secured one of the bears. The little animal was quite tame and trotted down to the surf line with Miss Fredericks.

Thousands of beach visitors thronged the water front to watch the novel performance. At first the little bear snorted and fussed as the spray splashed over his nose, but finally, with a little grunt, he ducked into the breakers and followed the leash which Miss Fredericks carried.

Collins Is Knocked Out By the Slugging Giants

Fenway Park, Boston, October 9th.—The second game of the World's championship series between the Red Sox and the Giants was played this afternoon before a record-breaking crowd. The players of both teams arrived in Boston in good shape, the Giants grim and determined to wipe out, if possible, yesterday's defeat at the Polo grounds, while the Red Sox were in the highest spirits and full of confidence in their ability to again defeat the warriors of McGraw.

Managers Stahl and McGraw switched their allegiance to pitchers, the former today sending Collins, who hurls from the off side, to the pitcher's box, and the latter after having lost yesterday with the big left-hander, Tesereau, sent old reliable "Big Six" Mathewson to the mound.

"Chief" Myers was again behind the bat for the Giants, and Carrigan replaced Cody behind the bat for the Red Sox.

Both pitchers started off in good form.

The Giants early in the game exhibited a fondness for the delivery of Collins, finally pounding out three runs in the eighth inning. This was enough and Stahl derrickd the left-hander and sent Hall to the box.

"Big Six" Mathewson pitched steady and heady ball throughout. He was not so streaky as Collins. In the ninth both sides were blanked with Hall holding the Giants level.

Each side scored one in the tenth.

At end of eleventh inning game was called on account of darkness.

Birthday Celebration

Mr. Harlan Vesey passed his 60th birthday yesterday and was very handsomely remembered by thirty of his old friends and neighbors of Paint Chapel and the Prairie pike neighborhood, where Mr. Vesey was born and raised.

The affair was entirely a surprise to Mr. Vesey, the guests arriving and showering him with congratulations without forewarning.

They brought baskets filled with good things for a basket dinner and many flowers, others not able to come remembering Mr. Vesey with birthday cards.

The day was a particularly happy one, with informal music to which Mr. Vesey contributed violin solos.

Their appreciation of their old neighbor was fully reciprocated by Mr. Vesey and his wife, who were deeply touched and much pleased by the spontaneous surprise.

Hartman Theater Attractions

One of the biggest successes of the past season was Eddie Foy in "Over the River". This same attraction is to return to the Hartman theater, Columbus, for three performances on Tuesday and Wednesday, October 15 and 16, with a matinee Wednesday.

At the opening of the play Mr. Foy appears as Madison Parke, a swag-ger New York clubman, who awakens after a night with "the boys" only to find himself in the embarrassing position of having been arrested and under sentence to thirty days on Blackwell's Island. In his anxiety to keep the truth from his wife, he plunges into a sea of prevarication and enlists all his friends to help him out. It avails him nothing, however, and the second act finds him in prison stripes doing the "lock step" "over the river". A number of specialties are introduced in the last act which add greatly to the performances and make it well worth seeing.

Bull Moose Adopt Another Resolution

Reason Given for Endorsing Each Candidate on the Republican Ticket, and Moose Further Announce Intention of Not Playing "Dog in the Manger"—Mention Sincerity of Purpose Having Been Questioned.

At the last meeting of the Bull Moose in this city, a voluminous resolution was unanimously adopted, and has just been made public.

The resolution in question prefaced with the explanation that some of the members of the opposition had seen fit to question the sincerity of purpose of the indorsement of the Republican county ticket by the Bull Moose, takes up the Republican candidates individually, and gives the reasons for indorsement, pointing out the good qualities of those indorsed.

After giving the reasons for indorsement, the resolution is brought to a conclusion in the following words:

Be it further resolved that it is not our purpose nor intention to play "dog in the manger", and hold out promises and inducements to any one, that we have no intention of fulfilling, for such practices are entirely at variance with the policies and principles of the Progressive party.

We stand for a square deal for everybody, and with Lincoln say, "with malice toward none; with charity for all; with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right", we expect to seek to right the wrongs and rectify the invidious practices of bosses, who have in the old parties usurped the rights of the people and who have in a great measure denied to them that God-given right of self-government.

Be it further resolved that a copy of this resolution be furnished each of the newspapers in Fayette county and that they be requested to publish the same, so that the most skeptical may be convinced as to our absolute sincerity in the matter.

While the records were being filled out it developed that both were from Ross county, and they confessed that they wished to marry here and fool their friends in Ross county.
